How to Compile a Bibliography

A bibliography is a list, in alphabetical order, of all the resources used in producing your essay or report. The way we compile a bibliography is using the HARVARD SYSTEM. There are other ways, but we have chosen this because it is simple. This system is the ONLY one to be used in your College assignment tasks.

Below is a list of entries which provide examples of most of the sources you would use. Don’t forget they are then arranged in alphabetical order of their author’s name or source name eg. title.

EXAMPLES

7. Newspaper article with author - O’CONNOR, Mike (1992) ‘We’ve Joined Television’s Big League At Last’, The Courier Mail (Brisbane), October 4, p 18.

Arrange ALL ITEMS ALPHABETICALLY by the main entry, whether it be AUTHOR or TITLE.

Set out your bibliography, in alphabetical order, like this:

For further bibliography and referencing information see the expanded list of Electronic sources which is available from your teacher.
